

Download Felbrigg The Story Of A House

Felbrigg Hall is a 17th-century English country house near the village of that name in Norfolk. Part of a National Trust property, the unaltered 17th-century house is noted for its Jacobean architecture and fine Georgian interior .

Felbrigg - The Story of a House [R Ketton-Cremer] on . *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. The fascinating history of Felbrigg Hall in Norfolk County England.

In the 19th century the estate rapidly declined and was almost lost to the shopping sprees of William Frederick Windham (or 'Mad Windham', as he became known in the 1860s) but was rescued when in 1923 it was passed to Robert Wyndham Ketton-Cremer (1906–1969), biographer of Thomas Gray, Horace Walpole, and writer of Felbrigg: The Story of a House', who restored it to its former glory.

Felbrigg, The Story of a House. By R. W. Ketton-Cremer. 8½ × 5½. Pp. 304 + pl. 15 + Map and Pedigree. London: Rupert Hart-Davies, 1962, 35s. - Volume 44 Issue 2 - Gyles Isham. Skip to main content. We use cookies to distinguish you from other users and to provide you with a better experience on our websites.

Get this from a library! Felbrigg : the story of a house. [R W Ketton-Cremer] -- History of an English house and the Windhams, Felbriggs, Lukins and Kettons, 1351-1962.

This video is unavailable. Watch Queue Queue. Watch Queue Queue

Written by the house's last squire, and pieced together largely from unpublished family papers, Felbrigg is the story of the Windhams, the Lukins, the Kettons and the Cremers, laid out against the backdrop of three hundred and fifty years of personal history and the major events of the times.

Note: Citations are based on reference standards. However, formatting rules can vary widely between applications and fields of interest or study. The specific requirements or preferences of your reviewing publisher, classroom teacher, institution or organization should be applied.

Once he returned home he began yet another round of building at Felbrigg, eventually furnishing a room of the house with an extensive collection of paintings brought back from Italy.

Admiral Lukin. 1824 - 1861. William Lukin was a distinguished sailor whose life before the mast began in 1781 at the age of 13. He left the navy in 1814 as a Vice Admiral, and inherited Felbrigg Hall in 1824.

Other Files :

Felbrigg The Story Of A House,