My first-born was off to full-time school and I was finding it emotional. She's now off to year 4, Little Man O is off to year 2, and Littlest Boy I is off to reception... and I'm still just as emotional. Perhaps more as my pre-school days have now come to an end after eight and a half years. Now seemed a good time to re-share this poem.

My First Day at Pre-School Poem. It has been one week now since I dropped my little girl off to her first day at nursery. The staffs were so understanding and even gave me this goody bag full of lovely comforting sweets and stuffs, accompanied with this lovely poem that I'd like to share with you.

I wish I could remember my name Mummy said it would come in useful. Like wellies. When there's puddles. Yellowwellies. I wish she was here. I think my name is sewn on somewhere Perhaps the teacher will read it for me. Tea-cher. The one who makes the tea. By Roger McGough From First Day at School To HOME PAGE

First Day of School poem. She started school this morning, And she seemed so very small. As I walked there beside her In the Kindergarten hall. And as she took her place beside the others in the class, I realized how all too soon Those first few years can pass. Remembering, I saw her as She first learned how to walk. The words that we alone ...
